National Sorry Day was last Sunday and this marked the beginning of Reconciliation Week. It was on this day in 1997 that the ‘Bringing Them Home’ report was tabled in Federal Parliament. The report revealed the extent of forced removal policies which existed for more than 150 years and into the 1970s. The report comprehensively documents first hand testimonies of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults who, as children, were forcibly removed from their mothers, families and communities in an attempt to strip them of their culture, language and identity. The apology was just one of the 54 recommendations outlined by the report.

I’m proud that Oakey State School supports reconciliation and the diversity of our people and I encourage you to recognise National Sorry Day and Reconciliation Week in our community and come together in the spirit of reconciliation.

NAIDOC Week will be celebrated at our school during Term 3.

A notice/order form was sent home recently offering students/families to purchase NAIDOC week merchandise. If you would like to purchase items to celebrate this event, please return the form to the school office as soon as possible.

Didn’t get a form? Please collect one from the Office.

Despite a cold bleak morning there were quite a number of students willing to participate in the walk to school day.
Chappy’s Chatters

A wise man was speaking to a group of his students. He put a large jar on the table and carefully placed about 12 large rocks into the jar. When it was filled he asked the class: “Is the jar full?” They all said “Yes”, and he responded by producing a bucket of gravel and pouring it into the jar. Again he asked if the jar was full. By this time the class was wary and replied “Probably not”. He then poured a bucket of sand into the jar, and once again asked if it was full. By now the class had woken up and replied, “No”. He then topped up the jar with water. When it was full to the brim he asked “What do you think is the point of this demonstration?” One student answered that if you really try hard you can always fit more in.

“That’s not the point” the wise man said, “If you don’t put the big rocks in first, you will never fit them in later”. In life we all have big rocks that represent our priorities – these may be your spouse, children, family, work, etc. We need to ensure that our priority in life is taking care of these big rocks.

You can do it – Confidence

During the week, classes will be working on the positive habit of Confidence. Confidence means believing you can do it. It means not being afraid to make mistakes, to try something new or to express an opinion. Students are encouraged to think by:

1. Accepting themselves - means not thinking badly about yourself when you make a mistake or when you are not as successful as you want to be, or when someone is critical of you.
2. Taking Risks - means thinking that it’s good to try something new, even though you might make mistakes or you might not be the best at doing it.
3. Being Independent - means thinking that it’s important for you to try new activities and to speak up even if other people think you are silly or stupid.
4. I Can Do It - means thinking that even when your work is hard, you are more likely to be successful than to fail.
